

When I enter the web app, I will see a button that allows me to log in. When I click the button, I will be redirected to Google login page where I can enter my credentials or create an account if I do not have one. If I enter invalid credentials Google will let me know. Otherwise, if my credentials are correct, I will be redirected back to the home page of the web app.

Once I reach the home page, if I belong to an active session, I will be immediately redirected to that session. Otherwise I will have two options: Host or Join a session (refer to respective story). On this page, and every other page, I can click the log out button to log out of the web app with my Google account.
